Principal's Report

- In person attendance is a little better lately, possibly due to nice weather
- Minimal covid spread due to our building-wide mitigation measures
- Still issues with students showing up during their remote days or on cold days
- Starting an attendance incentive program (donut party) to get 80% of the class online for 5 days in a row
- BLT met last week. Working on finding systems we will keep and which ones we will toss from hybrid learning model
- The school counselor shared with staff a pie chart that demonstrates where and with whom her time is spent. Ms. Halsey has been doing 5 minute mini-meetings with every student in the building. She has been finding some interesting trends which will help drive counselor lessons for next year
- Community Cupboard has been set up and is ready for business, located in front of Jeanne's Orchard on the northwest side of the building. This has been funded through a partnership with Just Food and Van Gogh. It has food, water and hygiene kits.
- Aimsweb benchmark reading and math data was shared; we are working to shore up tier two instruction
- There has been discussion with families and staff about returning to 4 day/week in-person instruction.
